Communication from the Mayor to the General is the court created by the Charter to try impeachments of all executive officers of the city not otherwise removable from office. For this, qualification. Four of these gentlemen, as is known and believed, are executive officers, and the Charter contains no provision constituting them a court to try and remove their co-ordin ates in the executive department, or to appoint them. In every aspect of this qestion it is mo-mentous to the present and future interest of the city, of her tax payers, property-holders, and all her productives, and tax-growers. If this quest on rested on the public mind, on the minds of the affected Aldernien, the minds of the lawyers, and her citizens, only in doubt, every con sideration of private and public interest, of private and public money and property, of har mony and security in the public service, of publie spirit, and of patriotism, would call on the affected members to yield their questionable po sitions, and solve the doubt in favor of the cor poration; this remedy is with them; if they fai or refuse to apply it, upon them must rest the calamities present or impending to the city and its interests. So ponderous are the contracts nds, and obligations now, and during the year to be entered into, to be issued, and to be in-curred by the Council (not less totally perhaps than $750,000), that I tremble under thei weight, while the equivocal state of the legislative department of the corporation, as set forth in this paper, is pressing on my mind the lear of losses, embarrassment, and sacrifices, to which the acts of this General Council, if illegal, may subject the corporation. In communicating this information and sta ting the legal effect of the facts communicated. my duty is performed, and our fellow-citizens, who have elected us to our respective duties will now and hereafter find in this paper the question fairly and calmly presented to the consideration of and settlement by the General Council. It is not for the Mayor, in his judg ment, to call in question, by means of his qualified negative, the acts of the General Council for want of qualification of members of either Board, but it is the duty prescribed to each Board to judge the qualifications of its members, and form that judgment by the qualifications tipulated for in the Charter, and to bring cacl Board into the formation of a General Council vhose acts shall be valid and binding on th eity and upon those contracting with the corpo ration. Each Board, to some extent, is, there fore, responsible for the valid organization of the other. With feelings of the highest respec for each Board of the General Council official ly, and for the members, thereof, personally, I am yours, respectfully,

AFTER several years experimenting in the manufa uring of Gin, I fortunately succeeded, in the year 18in making a discovery in its manufacture by which it was deprived of all acrid and Inflammatory propertie and rendered perfectly pure.

My manufactory is at Schiedam, Holland. After several mouths' reflection what title to give it, I introduce it to the American public under the name of "Wolfe's Schiedam Aromatic Schnapps." Schiedam is the name of the place in Holland where the Gin is manufactu Aromatic derives its name from the Italian Junip Berry, with which it is flavored, and the wor Schnapps" is the German for drink-Cogne, Drais Wolfe's Schiedam Aromatic Drink. HAVE A REMEDY-PURELY

The splendid pair of twin colts, cream colored matched horses, will byoffered for sale this morning, at 10 o'clock, A. M., at the livery stable opposite the Galt House. They are without a fault, of good breed, and so geutle that any lady can drive them. They are three years one month and twelve days old to-day good carriage horses and good travellers, and a perfectly matched as any horses can be. I war rant them to be all that I represent them to be and will sell them to none but a gentleman that will take good care of them. My reason for parting with them is, that I am traveling and have no use for them.

DR. J. II JONES, Galt House.

Mr. Everett's Oration. Every one has experienced the difficulty of recalling to mind the brilliaut passages, beautiful similes, and striking metaphors of the ora tor, after his words have fallen from his lips and their sound died upon the ear. To all who listened, breathless with attention, to Mr. Ev erett last evening, as that vast audieuce dia listen, this experience must since have pain fully presented itself, as they have tried to recall, for the benefit of friends who were ab sent, even one connected thought as it fell in all its finished perfection upon the listening ear It would be idle, then, to attempt to give an adequate idea of this great masterpiece of the greatest living master of the English tongue A brief summary of the different features of the background of the pieture, where Washingto stands the central figure, is all that we can save ere the vivid impression made last night upon the mind loses its force, to show those of ou readers who falled to be present what an expe rience they have neglected to incorporate into the very essence of their lives

After a beautiful tribute to Kentucky, Mr. Everett commenced his subject by saving, that to appreciate him fully, Washington must be viewed at the three different points of time when he stood most prominently before his country. First, at the time when he, after his return from his first campaigns, the aged servant of God, in the spirit of prophecy, predicted the future usefuluess of the young hero; next when he was called to lead the armies of United America in the sacred struggle for lib erty; and lastly, when, having retired from the perplexities and eares of the camp, he was unanimously invoked by the whole people to take upon himself the labors of a yet untried position, and stand at the helm of the new shi of State. Atter sketching in this backgroun of events, in hues that with a less skillful ham would have exhaused the paliet, and left n colors or light and shade to paint his ceutra figure, the speaker turned to the character of the hero himself; and, that the hearer might feel that no greatness is true nuless based upor goodness, no brilliancy more than tinsel tha has not the deep sabstratum of pure gold, no patriotism pure that has not for its end its country's good, unmixed with thoughts of self, h drew, with a masterly hand, the portraits of the eccentric Peter of Russia, the energetic but tyrannical Prederic of Prussia, and that brilliant meteor of the nineteenth century, the first Napoleon, analyzing the character of each, off setting their vices against their virtues, and then asked: "Can we for a moment compare the character of such a great man with that of our Washin, ton?"

Through the four-score years that hav nce the Declaration of Independent a hasty glance was taken of the great event that are crowded within their space, as the esults of the great struggle in which Washngton was the great central light.

Then, casting an eye backwards, and looking down the long corridors of history, crowded with the statues of great and noble men, th eye returns from its vain search after the truly great, to rest at last upon the noble form of the Father of his Country. Mr. Everett met the foolish criticism "that weak minds have passed upon the great hero, 'that he lacked genius,' to asking: "Where are the salient points in the circle?" The very necessity of its nature, as a perfect eirele, precludes the possibility of them. Add, then, some great mark of genius to the character of Washington, without deforming it, if you can. In approaching the end of his discourse, the eloquence of the orator seemed to gain new vigor, as he drew the contrast between the stately palace, amidst its miles of forest, where art and nature had done their utmost upon English soil to commemorate the name of the victor of Blenheim, whose life was stained with the foul blots of treachery and avariee, and the humble home upon the Potomac, where dwelt one, whose living there had made it the shrine to which pilgrim feet will turn for ages with eager steps, as the spot on earth where dwelt a truly great man. In conclusion, Mr. Everett recalled the words of Washington in his farewell address; and the orator, in words of bur ing cloquence, pledged the faith of the Ame, iean people, that, in spite of the mad-man cry of a few heedlesss men, the two great sections of the country should unite in bonds of closer union; and as the flood of emigration pours onward, bursting forth into new States that fill the valley and level the forest, and, descending the other slope of the mountains. pours through the galden gate of California, it shall carry with it, as i. beats responsive to the hearts of the people, East and West, North and South, this pledge, that the words of the great hero shall be held sacred, and that we will not, in the disruption of this Union, prove that yesterday. the life of the noblest of God's children, the immortal Washington, was in vain.

THE WASHINGTON ENDEMIC. - The "Naonal Hotel" poison story derives new import nee from a statement in the Washington States signed Geo. P. Buel, a boarder at the hotel at out the time the malady first began to man fest itself. Mr. Buel says, in substance, that a person (no name given) who had previously en head steward at the National, but who had elt the establishment, owing to a misunder standing with the proprietors, said to him (Buel) in the presence of Col. Walker, of the Indiana Legislature, that the hotel was poisoned, and people would find out it was poisoned This was before the sickness had begun to exite public remark.) The person alluded to at he same time indulged in a torrent of abuse of he proprietors, and he never failed to improve portunity to urge a boarder to leave the otel, or to prevent a stranger entering i When the "poison" became epidemic, an effort was made to hunt up this mysterious man—but without effect. All that is known about him is, that he did all in his power, after leaving the notel, to secure the situation of steward at the White House, and that failing in that, he left the sphere of woman in a practical way as- Washington for Boston, where he had formerly

WESTERN CROPS .- The Evansville (Ind.) ournal, of the 12th, says:

Journal, of the 12th, says:

We are told, by a gentleman who is familiar with the country, that in the district of Illinois, west of the learner railread, and between the Ohio and Mississippi adeods and the Barlington road, there is exarcely a field of wheat that has withshood the effects of the loads and freezes of the lead winter. In this whole tree, which is the principal wheat district of Illinois, he farmers are plowing their autumn fields, and sowing them in spring wheat or planting them in corn. On the south of the Dhio and Mississippi road, both in indiama and Illinois, the wheat fields are looking finery. In this immediate vicinity, we are told by the armers, that their wheat never looked more promising. A short exemsion through this country and into diffson, on Saturday, enabled us to confirm these resorts, by personal observation, and we never saw mere quoriant and version fields of wheat than those that resetted our eye along the road. The poor cattle that and beserken for months on short commons, were reclaim in the feed grass.

On April 5th, the Independence and Decatur vere at Panama, and the Cyane at Aspinwall. Bills passed the California Assembly appoint-ing a board of examiners to find the indebtedess of the State, July 25th.
'The Assembly Judiciary Committee, by direction of the Assembly, reported a bill pre-venting the immigration of colored people. The bill will probably pass. A bill passed the Senate submitting the paynent of the State debt to the people. The Legislature voted to adjourn on the 27th

Money news very favorable. Business dull. It is generally thought that the people of Ore-gon will adopt a State form of government and oustitution prohibiting slavery. There is great excitement among the Morhat Brigham Young had been compelled to flee om Salt Lake to save himself from the fury of us flock. Neither the Panama nor the Aspinwall paers contain anything from Nicaragua.
